From oil & gas to geothermal – Rethinking heating

Von Öl und Gas zur Geothermie - Heizung neu denken

Alexander Richter, Innargi A/S

Building on a legacy of around 60 years in Oil and Oil Drilling and after the sale of that business, Danish group A.P. Møller, mostly known through its container shipping business Mærsk, stepped into geothermal business with the foundation of Innargi in 2018. The company pushes the industrialization of geothermal using lower temperature hydrothermal resources for district heating in Europe with proven technology and at competitive prices. The presentation will provide a background on the approach and plans for expanding the use of geothermal for district heating beyond Innargi's home market Denmark.
